DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-47 are subject to examination.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-37, 44-47, are drawn to, “modifying resources within a compute environment being one of a compute farm, a cluster environment and grid environment, by receiving a request for consumption resources / provisioning services / to process a batch job / for direct volume access / for a virtual private cluster, monitoring events after receiving the request to determine if a party submitting the request has submitted a job for processing once resources in the environment are reserved for the job, dynamically modifying the request for resources comprising migrating a reservation to be associated with new resources”, classified in class 709, subclass 224.
 - II. Claims 38-43, are drawn to, “managing resources within a compute environment, reserving resources in the environment according to the request, charging the requestor based on the reservation of resources comprising charging a specific rate for the reserved resources whether the reserved resources are used or not, charging a first rate for reserved resources that are used and a second rate for reserved resources that are not used, dynamically customizing resources within the reservation to meet workload submitted within the reservation”, classified in class 718, subclass 104.

3. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has a separate utility such as “modifying resources within a compute environment being one of a compute farm, a cluster environment and grid environment, by receiving a request for consumption resources / provisioning services / to process a batch job / for direct volume access / for a virtual private cluster, monitoring events after receiving the request to determine if a party submitting the request has submitted a job for processing once resources in the environment are reserved for the job, dynamically modifying the request for resources comprising migrating a reservation to be associated with new resources”. Invention II has a separate utility such as “managing resources within a compute environment, reserving resources in the environment according to the request, charging the requestor based on the reservation of resources comprising charging a specific rate for the reserved resources whether the reserved resources are used or not, charging a first rate for reserved resources that are used and a second rate for reserved resources that are not used, dynamically customizing resources within the reservation to meet workload submitted within the reservation”, lacking one or more of the particulars of the other invention. Therefore, inventions I and II, have different functions, different modes of operation and they have different effects. See MPEP 806.05(d).

4. These inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, and the search required for each Group is different and not co-extensive for examination purpose. For example, the searches for the two inventions would not be co-extensive because these groups would require different searches on PTO's classification class and subclass as following:

(a) Group I search (claims 1-37, 44-47) would require use of search class 709, subclass 224 (not required for the invention II).

(b) Group II search (claims 38-43) would require use of search class 718, subclass 104 (not required for the invention I).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art, as shown by their different classification, and because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the extensive search required for one group is not required for the other groups, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 0 (zero) months and 30 (thirty) days from the mail date of this letter. Failure to respond within the period for response will result in ABANDONMENT of the application (see 35 U.S.C. 133, MPEP 710.02, 710.02(b)).
